

Munsey S. Wheby, MD, MACP, '51 served as the inaugural Hylton Health Care Presentation speaker on April 11, 2006. Dr. Wheby is Professor of Internal Medicine and Senior Associate Dean of the School of Medicine Emeritus at the University of Virginia. He graduated from Roanoke College, earned his MD from the University, held clinical positions at the Tropical Research Medical Laboratory in Puerto Rico and at Walter Reed General Hospital in Washington, D.C., is a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, and has spent much of his career at the University of Virginia. Dr. Wheby gave a very inspirational presentation on Compassion in Medicine.